

There are many points in life where we cannot see what awaits around a corner and it is precisely at such times, when our path is unclear

